HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

Division 1 meets Tuesday night. This will be the last meeting before the State convention.

John Barton, William Cain and James Lynch will represent the New York division at the coming State convention at Paris.

The Hibernian Knights of Worcester, Mass., contemplate holding an Irish dancing carnival next October, when prizes will be awarded for jigs and reels.

Rochester made a fine showing in the State parade at Utica last Tuesday. That city sent a delegation of between 400 and 500, headed by the Emmet Guards and a band.

The Stations of the Cross presented by the two divisions of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Norwich, Conn., have been placed in position in the convent chapel of St. Patrick's parish.

Twenty-seven events were on the programme for the outing of Division 1 of Duluth last week. This was the twenty-first annual gathering of the kind and an enormous crowd was in attendance.

At the anniversary celebration of Division 19 of Providence forty members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the State officers and Presidents of ten divisions were present among the invited guests.

The Hibernians of Rome last week held a largely attended reception in honor of the Rev. James Carson, the newly appointed pastor of St. Peter's church. He is Chaplain of the county organization.

President Murphy presided over a good meeting of Division 4 Wednesday night. The members were notified that Joseph O'Brien continues on the sick list. There were a number of visitors present and several good talks.

Matthew Dennison, for twenty-two years State Secretary, was presented with a gold watch and chain at the Michigan State convention held recently at Bay City. M. F. Powers, of Grand Rapids, was elected State President.

National President Cummings spoke well when he said he would conduct the affairs of the organization on conservative, broad-minded, Irish and American lines. Upon that platform he will have the confidence and support of the entire membership.

Two hundred delegates will today close a very busy State convention at Anaconda, Mont. The opening session was held Thursday and the entertainment of the delegates and visitors, who came from all parts of the State, there were numerous side trips and a banquet.

Not less than 600 delegates and visitors are expected at the Indiana State convention that meets Monday at South Bend. A feature of the convention will be a ball to be given at St. Patrick's Hall and the Oliver Hotel, where the sessions will be held. The Ladies' Auxiliary convention will be held at the same time and place.

Connecticut Hibernians held their State convention this week in the armory at New Britain. Among those who were invited and took part in the proceedings were Right Rev. Bishop Tierney, the Mayor and local clergy and pastors from Berlin, Plainville, Bristol and Hartford. The first session was held Wednesday morning and adjournment took place Thursday night.

What will in all probability be the greatest athletic success known in the history of amateur sport will be the two-day monster athletic carnival of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which will be held at Celtic Park, Long Island City. The prizes will be handsome and most costly that has ever been presented at an amateur meet. Many athletes of world-wide reputation and some of the world's record holders and Olympic champions have forwarded their entries to the chairman of the Games Committee, and judging from the enormous demand for the entry blanks every athlete in and around New York State will compete. There will be events open to the athletes of the Amateur Athletic Union of America, Catholic Schools, Athletic League, Knights of Columbus, and a one-mile relay race closed to Irish-American military organizations of six years standing.

THE BLARNEY STONE.

Few persons know how the Blarney stone, the kissing of which is known to bestow peculiar wheedling powers upon a person, first got its reputation. It dates back to 1602 when the Spanish were trying to excite the Irish chieftains to harass the English authorities. Captain Marmaduke McDermott McCarthy, who held the Castle of Blarney in Ireland, had concluded an armistice with the Lord President, on condition of surrendering this fort to an English garrison, but day after day he put off the English lord with soft promises and delusive delays until the English lord became a laughing stock and "Blarney talk" a proverb.

HE ENJOYED IT.

Mrs. Newfynd had her first venture at cooking dinner in her own home, which passed successfully, and they sat in silence at opposite ends of the table, wondering at the novelty of it all and gazing at each other. "Honestly, honestly—on your word of honor—did you like it, darling?" she asked finally. "Never enjoyed anything so much in my life," he said, and swallowed a lump. "Everything, everything, from soup to pudding." "Every mouthful, from soup to pudding," he said, bravely. "Oh I am so relieved, then!" she said, as a huge sigh escaped her. "You see, I forgot to order syrup for the sauce for the pudding, and I had to have something; so I took your cough syrup, and I was so afraid you'd taste it!"

and will be willing that every question in dispute shall be presented for investigation and deliberation, with the idea of settling all questions by reason and not by force. I have such faith in this sense that I believe in the course of time every question will be settled right, and it is because I believe that the sense of justice is to be found everywhere I have hope that Ireland's appeal to justice and I thank my friend, Mr. O'Connor, for having included Mrs. Bryan in his words of welcome, for she has been my companion in all my joys with me, and by dividing multiplied them, but has robbed all my disappointments and all my sorrows of their sting, and it is fit that the kind words spoken of her should be spoken by an Irishman, for I know no other country on earth where woman is held in higher esteem, or shares more fully in all the affairs of the man and the family, than in Ireland.

I am not here to make you a speech. I am simply here to acknowledge the courtesy that you have shown to Mrs. Bryan and myself, and I thank my friend, Mr. O'Connor, for having included Mrs. Bryan in his words of welcome, for she has been my companion in all my joys with me, and by dividing multiplied them, but has robbed all my disappointments and all my sorrows of their sting, and it is fit that the kind words spoken of her should be spoken by an Irishman, for I know no other country on earth where woman is held in higher esteem, or shares more fully in all the affairs of the man and the family, than in Ireland.

BUCKINGHAM.

Entirely overhauled and redecorated the Buckingham Theater will throw open its doors next week. This popular burlesque and vaudeville playhouse possesses every comfort the theater-goer can desire. For the initial attraction the management will present the Empire Burlesques, which gives assurance that the bill will be an exceptionally good one.

ADVISES RESISTANCE.

Emile Flourens, who was the French Minister of Foreign Affairs in 1886, has just thrown a bombshell into the ranks of the French officials by publishing a book. It is said through inspiration received from Rome, in which he dissects the law of separation and shows that both the church authorities and the Catholics of France can not possibly submit to its provisions. M. Flourens says it is the duty of Catholics to stand by the side of the Church and the Faith and to make a determined war against the law. The publication of the work has caused much of a sensation in Government circles, as it is known that millions of copies have been printed for distribution in every diocese and parish of France.

The Irish National Foresters' convention of 1907 is to be held at Dundalk.

Dublin mail car drivers are compelled to work eighty hours per week, for which they are paid only 20s.

Arthur Cahill, aged twenty-four, passed away at his father's residence in Drumconrath, and for the bereaved parents there is felt much sympathy.

The death has occurred, at the age of 103 years, of Mrs. Honoria Morris, at Enlia, near Castlereagh, who up to a short time ago was able to discharge household work.

Father McKeown, the popular parish priest at Dunleer, was greeted by his people and presented with addresses upon his return to them after his recent illness.

Blight has made its appearance among the potato crop in Munster and several centers in Limerick, Clare and Kerry are already reported as having tubers affected.

Rev. Peter O'Leary, Castletynons, County Cork, has been appointed by Most Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne, to a vacant canonry in the Cathedral Chapter of Cloyne.

The people of Warrenpoint are doing much to bring their place up to date as a seaside resort. The new swimming baths and sea promenade tend to make the place more popular than it has been.

Matthew Duff, an aged and respected citizen, died at his home at Greenhill, County Meath, and his remains were buried in the Drumconrath graveyard. He leaves two sons, Patrick and James Duff.

A return showed the number of eviction notices for the quarter ended June 30, 1906, has been presented to Parliament. The total number 663, Mayo claiming 87; Donegal, 92; Tyrone, 47; and Galway, 31.

Owen McCabe, a resident of Coramanty, with a serious accident at Lisacullen. While proceeding home from the blacksmith's forge his horse took fright and McCabe fell. His leg was broken and his body bruised.

Andrew Carnegie has offered $12,000 to the Lismore Public Libraries Committee for the erection of four branch library buildings for the rural district, which has been accepted and a committee appointed to provide sites in Lismore, Tallow, Dallyduff and Cappoquin.

When presented before the Dublin Commission Maxwell Boyle, of Glendarragh, County Fermanagh, a Justice of the Peace for Cavan, pleaded guilty to having written a defamatory libel in a letter addressed to a young lady in Dublin, for which Justice Wright sentenced him to six months' imprisonment.

Father Hackett, of Maynooth College, who had been spending six weeks at St. McCartan's Seminary in Monaghan, suffered an attack of acute pneumonia. His relatives were summoned to his bedside, but the last report states that while his condition was unchanged it was not expected that fatal results would follow.

A serious accident occurred at the old Barytes mines at Seart, near Bantry. A party of seven men descended one of the old shafts to a wooden platform at a depth of about fifty fathoms from the surface. While clearing off the rubbish from this platform it suddenly collapsed, precipitating three men to the bottom, about eighty more fathoms, thirty of which are water. Patrick Casey and J. Donovan were drowned. The third man, P. Driscoll, who was able to swim, kept himself afloat until help reached him.

An extraordinary fatality occurred at Charleville, Co. Wick, near Roscrea. A tennis party was in progress at Charleville House, the host being Mr. H. C. White, J. P., formerly High Sheriff for Queen's county. During the evening White left the tennis grounds, accompanied by a lady, a Miss Radcliffe, from County Meath, and it is surmised that they went for a row on the artificial lake on the grounds, the dimensions of which would be about four acres. The party not returning at a late hour, some persons went in search of them. When the lake was reached the empty boat was seen floating on it, and also White's hat, but there was no sign of the lady or that gentleman. The body of Miss Radcliffe was found about thirty-five yards from the shore, and that of White about three yards away.

CANADA.

Canada holds that if there is to be an annexing on this continent she should be the annexer, not the annexed. The Dominion now exceeds the United States in area by 250,000 square miles. She comprises one-third of the area of the British Empire, as large as thirty United Kingdoms, eighteen Germanys and thirty-three Italys. Her seacoast equals half the earth's circumference, and her territory stretches 3,500 miles one way and 1,400 the other. But Canada's total population doesn't equal the population of New York and London combined, and it is people, not acres, that constitute a country's greatness.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

The body motions are necessary to beauty. Learn how to sway your body prettily, and you have conquered the dreadful bugbear of awkwardness. You must learn to bend and sway, to move this way and that way, to stand up and sit down without acting as if hinged. There are women whom it is a delight to watch, and there are others whose every movement is painful to the eye. Don't be one of the awkward sisterhood when you can just as well be graceful. Practice them early and late, and if you have a few minutes in between times, practice them again. Stand erect, and with your arms go through with the calisthenics which will transform you from an ugly duckling into a charmingly pretty swan.
